

Jeff Courtney graduated from Page County High School in 1997. After pursuing other avenues, he ventured into law enforcement in 2003, when he took a job with the Department of Corrections at Camp 8 in Harrisonburg, VA. Three years later (2006), he went to work for the Page County Sheriff's Department. He worked there for about seven (7) years. During that time, Jeff completed Basic Jailers School, served as Captain over the jail, became a certified bailiff and became civil process certified. Later, upon becoming accredited, he worked as a road deputy. In 2013, Jeff went to work as a police officer for the Town of Stanley. In addition, he was hired as a part-time officer for the Town of Shenandoah in 2014. Jeff worked only on an as-needed basis in Shenandoah, until he was hired in January, 2016 to fill a vacant, full-time position.

Jeff has one 15-year old son, who wants to follow in "Dad's footsteps", and go into law enforcement. Jeff currently resides in Stanley.
